

MIRANTI OJONG

Biography

Miranti Ojong has over ten years of business experience in a variety of industries including Commercial and Residential Real Estate; Green Lending; Hotel Management and Real Estate; Hospitality Services and Construction. Currently, she holds the title of Green Builder Relations at Cal Green Lending, a green mortgage brokerage company in Calistoga, California. Ojong's expertise in green business strategies and her work with Cal Green Lending has heightened the awareness of green building throughout the green building industry and the community.

Ojong is also founder and president of MIRANTI Real Estate, offering residential property investment, renovation, construction management, and international hotel asset management and operational consulting. Her entrepreneurial endeavors don't end there, she is also the founder of My Kitty Mall, an e-commerce business selling cat products and supplies to online consumers.

After graduating from Cornell University with a Bachelors of Science in Hospitality Management and a concentration in Real Estate Development, Ojong went on to earn a Certificate in Construction Practices from San Diego State University. She always knew she wanted to be in construction and with a concentration in Real Estate Development under her belt she is now hard at work on obtaining a general contractor's license.

Ojong is an active member of the Residential Green Building Advocacy Committee of the U.S. Green Building Council in San Francisco and she continues her alma mater support as a Cornell ambassador. She currently resides in San Francisco, but will be making her move to Calistoga this year, where her Fiancé and business partner at Cal Green Lending, resides.
